Aloha. My name is Big Mike. I graduated from the University of California with a degree in economics and computer sciences. I made my home in Honolulu in 1978. My first job here was with "Sunburns," a fun publication that many old timers will remember.

I've had a twelve-year career with community service organizations on Oahu including MDA, the Hawaiian Humane Society, American Heart Association and Hina Mauka. Since 1992, my partner and I have run a small computer consulting business.

I'm married and enjoy gardening, cooking, golfing, photography and walking our Boxer dogs.

I've been active in local politics, having run for office and served on my community association and neighborhood board.

I truly believe in individual liberty and in our constitutional form of government. I believe in equal treatment under the law for all citizens. I think it is healthy to have a constant flow of "new blood" and new ideas into government.

Our brothers returning from WWII brought such a refresher to Hawaii as voters "caught the wave" in the fifties. Our state government is in need of such refreshing again as Hawaii moves ahead in this new century.

Governor Linda Lingle is a new and vital source of these ideas for action. She needs legislators with open minds and a sturdy work ethic to design and implement Hawaii's future course. This is how, for example, a stilted bureaucracy like the DOE can be transformed into a fountain of learning.

I urge you to join his effort.
